BROADWAY THEATER.

Eddie Leonard's Minstrels.

Eddle Leonard's matchless organization of high class minstrelsy will be they are taken out of doors and placed in the artificially constructed brooks 13th. Splendid reports are heard of this attraction from all along the line and it is with pardonable pride that the management calls attention to this stention to this second the management calls attention to the management calls attention to the second the management calls attention to this second the management calls attention to this second the management calls attention to the second the management calls attention to the second the management calls attention to this the creditable endeavor to elevate this popular form of entertainment. Polite ministrelay perfectly presented is the motto of Eddie Leonard, and a glance at the list of stars and special acts embraced in the roster is convincing proof that he has lived up to it in every detail. star minstrel, Eddie Leonard, surnamed America's minstrel artist, beads the list of merrymakers. Mr. Leonard was the headliner in the big Cohan & Harris minstrels last season and it may well be said that he was the hit of that organization. Eddie Leonard is in a class all by himself. Its makeup and characteristics give him every occasion for the expressions of his varied humor. His portrayal of comedy is always of a superior kind and as each season adds to the development of an artist of his ability undoubtedly as the head of his own company will show him in a more artises. surnamed America's minstrel artist.

At each performance of the remarkable bill of motion pictures at the Breed theater this week new and flattering compliments in reference to the high standard of excellence of the entertainment at this popular theater are heard on every side. The young and old are alike delighted and charmed with the old-time circus picture entitled The Lion Tamer. In this great picture are seen the performing ponies so pleasing to the children especially, the dancing elephant, the educated black bears and the great scene where the hero enters the cage of roaring lions and puts them through a series of stunts which, being compulsory for the animals, they do very reluctantly, this doing much to enliven the act. The part where the lion tamer seizes the child of an old-time rival among the spectators and thrusis it into the case from which he has been at the Brown and has had a private audience with the pope. The visit was made with the Rev. Father Kennedy of the Catholic university of Washington. Father Farmer writes that the pope expressed great interest in the United States, asking many questions about this country.

Cruelty of Emnta Goldman.

Why should Emma Goldman.

Why should Emma Goldman be so hard upon women who do not clope with their husbands' coachmen? Every woman's husband is not able to keep a coachman for her to clope with. Why, there are some women who haven't even a husband.—New York Press. At each performance of the remarkthe spectators and thrusis it into the cage, from which he has just emerged, leaving the lions in a fearful rage, is thrilling in the extreme.

Curing a Jealous Hubby is a comedy t of the first water and evokes roars hit of the first water and evokes roars of convulsive laughter from the start to finish, and is preceded by Flossie's New Peach Basket, a clever run on the late style in ladies' headgear.

Master Harry Noonan gives great pleasure to the patrons of the Breed with his delightful singing, rendering as he does What Makes the World Go Round? besides a pretty illustrated song.

Lincoln Park.

Lincoln Park.

Lincoln park had two more goodsized crowds yesterday. The afternoon matinee was generously attended by the women and children and the evening show saw Rustic theater comfortably filled, the usual number of business men and others going down. It is noted, too, that the park draws considerable patronage from the places along the electric road between Poquetanuck and Westerly.

Gaylor and Graff in "A Silent Wo-man," are decidedly funny. Miss Fran-ces Gerard, the soloist, unites to an excellent voice a winning stage pres-ence and a most gracious manner that have a charm for everyone within sight and sound of her. Benson and Bell are lively dancers and bright singers, their stuttering and lisping duet being particularly well done. Harry Dare is a right good black-face performer and his songs and face performer and his songs and jokes, as well as his solos on his but-tons and his mittens and his accortons and his mittens and his accordion and violin playing, take at least as well as anything on the bill. The Omega Trio, in "Sweeney's Finish." are three able laughmakers and their tenor soloist has a much better voice than the average man who sings on the stage of a summer park. His song. "I'm Tired of Living Without You," always makes a hit. His voice, powerful, sweet and clear, carries far outside the theater. The other members of the trio furnished the comedy part of the sketch and in this there Feature night is drawing nearer. Thursday, after the evening performance comes to an end at 8.40, or there abouts, there will be a bit of a recess to permit the partons to stretch their legs, and then, at 10.05, the sport—of a harmless character—will commence, ending at 10.20. The last car legves for the city at 11.05. Feature night, of course, will not interfere with the dancing or other amusements.
